Learn business fashion do's and dont's and how to dress for a job interview. We'll show you how to create a killer interview outfit on a student budget.

The College Board Advocacy Group reports that "for most students who go to college, the increase in their lifetime earnings far outweighs the cost of their education." However, the real value of a college education, in addition to greater income potential, consists of increased fulfillment, security, better health, closer family, stronger community and "broadening of horizons that come from a college experience."
