The cost of higher education has been rising much faster than the average family's ability to pay. Often times, the gap between the amount of money in scholarships, grants and loans becomes a burden to our students and to their families, and ultimately, forces them to put their education on hold—sometimes periodically, but too often, permanently.

The Guardian Fund exists to help bridge the gap in the amount in which a student is responsible, and will allow them to more affordably have the opportunity to obtain a baccalaureate degree.
